Brief History	Association for Faculty Enrichment in Learning and Teaching (AFELT) was born out of the desire to improve the quality of learning and teaching in higher education. The founder members were fellows of the higher education academy through participation in the Postgraduate Certificate in Academic Practice facilitated by York St. John University. The transformation at individual level and experience of our students led the cohort to ensure that what was learnt during the one year training would be transferred to our institutions. The association was therefore formed in 2014 to create a community of praxis through which we could share our experiences, research on the scholarship of teaching and learning and support each other in improving the quality of teaching.
